OLD DOMINION UNIVERSITY

Established in 1930, Old Dominion University, located in the City of Norfolk in the metropolitan Hampton Roads region of coastal Virginia, is a dynamic public research institution that serves its students and enriches the Commonwealth of Virginia, the nation, and the world through rigorous academic programs, strategic partnerships, and active civic engagement. Old Dominion University is a Carnegie Doctoral Research (High) University whose central purpose is to provide students with the best education possible, while elevating its stature among the nation's public research institutions. Through its six academic colleges (Arts and Letters, Business, Education and Professional Studies, Engineering & Technology, Health Sciences and Sciences) and seven academic schools (Joint School of Public Health, School of Cybersecurity, School of Data Science, School of Nursing, Eastern Virginia Medical School, EVMS School of Health Professions and School of Supply Chain, Logistics & Maritime Operations) the University offers 2,285 courses as part of over 156 degree programs - numerous certificate programs, 66 baccalaureates, 57 masters, 30 doctorates, 1 first professional, and 2 education specialists. In Fall 2024, the 23,743 students enrolled, inclusive of approximately 5,900 graduate students, are drawn from all 50 American states, including DC and Puerto Rico, and our international students represent 89 countries. In addition to the main Norfolk campus, programs are offered at extended campuses in nearby cities. As Virginia's distance education pioneer, Old Dominion University offers 62 online degree programs, enrolling students through Distance Learning sites in Virginia and beyond.
